MANSFIELD, OHIO.

Of Mansfield and its relations to the history of Ohio, and particularly the features pertaining to its early settlement and establishment much might be said, but as there has already been printed most of the salient features in this relation it probably is pertinent herein to refer to the mere data of the founding and establishing of the city of Mansfield.

Founded June 11, 1808, by Col. Jared Mansfield, an English Engineer, it soon became a trading post and village of some prominence and for years was one of the important towns of what was then known as Richland county, embracing what is now a great many of the counties of North Central Ohio. The city is one of the oldest in the State and is located on the old wheat-packet route from the river to the lakes.

The growth and improvement of the city has been of a rather conservative nature, but it has been steady and substantial both in its relation to agricultural resource as well as to manufacturing and commercial development. The most important growth of the city has been made in the past twenty years, and more particularly since 1890 since which time manufacturing enterprise has advanced; and especially in the last ten years the enlargement and improvement of many of the local factories has been of a notable nature—in some instances the former capacity being doubled, while in the past six years improvements have been made in nearly every department of its manufacturing resource.

The city is noted for its beautiful and commodious homes and it has become a common phrase, that Mansfield is a city of fine homes, good schools and a community of hospitable people, and it has supported more than an ordinary number of excellent churches, and the settlement of the community, it might be truthfully said, is of a substantial American Christian character. The working men of the community, it is a noted fact, largely own their own homes; among the higher class of working men nearly 60% are property owners.

Located as it is on the highest point, with a single exception, in Ohio—1471 feet above the sea level—it is at once a healthful city, augmented largely by its especially good spring water supplied by a modern water works system, and by a modern and thoroughly equipped sanitary sewage and disposal plant; the best evidence of this being the freedom from typhoid and other kindred fevers, while there is practically a total absence of malarial difficulties in this entire community.

In manufacture, 61 establishments employ labor in Mansfield, varying from 6 to 612 men to each enterprise employing an aggregate of 3,950 workingmen with an annual pay roll of $2,750,000 and a manufactured output of nearly $10,000,000, while the combined mercantile jobbing amounts to something over $3,000,000 annually. The manufacturer's output is devoted chiefly to agricultural implements, horse vehicles, stoves, sanitary appliances, electrical apparatus, suspenders, elastic web, and a large volume of output in the tobacco line—particularly cigars, the output of the combined factories last year approximating something over 50,000,000 cigars; while last year in new enterprises there was added manufacturers producing small and heavy chain and steam and electrical cranes, railroad wreckers and dredges.

The city is especially well adapted for manufacture since it is situated within 17½ miles of the very center of manufacture in the United States as shown by the last official report of the U. S. census bureau, taking as a basis the output of the entire country. It is the only city between New York and Chicago located on the main lines of three great trunk line railways of the country, and it has the additional advantage of drawing coal on three different lines of supply and iron ore from seven different sources of supply at an equal tariff and lower in some instances than any other city in this part of the State; while it has also the advantage of being in a gas belt and of having a bountiful supply of natural gas which is furnished manufacturers at a comparatively nominal figure.

While there is no individually wealthy citizen of the millionaire type the community as a whole is reasonably wealthy, and, above all, the wealth is well distributed.

The increase in population since the last census shows about 33%, while the gain in financial deposits and assets of local institutions has been commensurate to the increase in population and probably in excess of that ratio.

In every branch Mansfield is a modern city—the sanitary department, fire department, the police department, and in its educational resources as well as its religious feature and in public work the city shows superior advantages, there being now about 45 miles of paved streets including some beautiful boulevards and other public works among which should be mentioned one of the most beautiful parks in the State of Ohio.

The Ladies' World

The Ideal Publication for Women and the Home

Edited by CHAS. DWYER.

Literary Attractions:

¶ The serials, short stories and verse include the work of the foremost authors of the day, whose names stand for the best quality of bright, entertaining and wholesome writing.

Domestic Science Departments:

¶ These departments constitute one of the strongest features of the magazine. They are conducted by well known authorities on their respective subjects,and are especially helpful because they are always most practical.

Fashions and Dressmaking:

¶ The former dressmaking expert of THE DELINEATOR has charge of these pages and her descriptions of the new fashions and hints on their making prove invaluable to the home dressmaker. All the styles illustrated are the latest and best of the New York and Paris designs.

Special Features:

¶ Especially popular contributions are the beautifully illustrated "Special Feature" articles published each month that entertainingly treat of some historical, biographical or musical subject; the departments dealing with Etiquette and Good Looks; and the pages devoted exclusively to Stories and Pastimes for Children.

Price---50 Cents Per Year:

¶ This small sum secures to the subscribers a beautiful illustrated and printed monthly magazine of from 36 to 48 large size pages---unquestionably the best and at the same time the cheapest high grade domestic magazine in America.

Subscription Inducements:

¶ Write for 20 page illustrated Premium List describing over 250 different premiums, or send for our Special Terms for Cash Agents.

¶ We solicit small savings accounts as well as large. ¶ Teach children early in life the value of thrift and the wisdom of being prudent in the expenditure of money. These habits if formed early will never be forgotten. ¶ Parents should give them a start. ¶ Open an account in the child's name, give him the bank book and tell him what it is and what it means. It will encourage him to save his pennies. The result will surprise you
